

DEVELOPING YOUNG LEADERS

Inspire Together rely on the support of young leaders at all of our events to ensure everything runs smoothly and the young people get the best possible experience. New College leaders have supported us for the whole academic year, including development, inspire and excel events. At the start of this academic year the leaders had very low confidence when it came to leading at our events.

One Leader in particular has followed the journey from primary through to year 11 - attending a large percentage of events to either compete and take part - or as a leader.

She has been nominated to be a part of the pilot program 'Barclays Game Changer' which sees her undertake a responsibility within her school of encouraging girls to play more football. She started playing football in primary school in the girls football team and had never played before and is now thriving within sport and leadership. She has taken on some training and will start to deliver the full programme in the new academic year

As they supported on more and more events from orienteering to sports hall athletics, gymnastics to boccia her confidence grew and she was able to lead small groups of young people.

New College leaders are reliable, polite and have embraced the values of Inspire Together and how we embed them in our events. They are young role models and having them as part of the events just makes the students experience even more of a positive one.
